

LICENSEES – IS YOUR BUSINESS ADEQUATELY INSURED?

Public Liability Insurance

Your LPO Agreement makes Public Liability insurance mandatory for your LPO – but do you have Public Liability insurance for the other part of your business, whatever it may be: newsagency, pharmacy, gifts, stationery, shop, general store, etc? Is the A-frame Australia Post sign outside your LPO covered by Public Liability insurance?

As well as your LPO, the POAAL Insurance Plan will cover the Australia Post A-frame sign, just send us a note with your membership/insurance renewal and the sign will be added to your cover.

If you want your other business included on the policy, ring Jason Harvey at insurance brokers GWS Genco Group and Jason will arrange an extension of coverage for you.

If your landlord or shopping centre request to be listed on your Public Liability Certificate of Insurance, attach the details on a separate piece of paper when you renew your membership/insurance for 2007/08 and it will be done! Remember to get their name details correct when you send it in.

Product Liability Insurance

When you take Public Liability Insurance for your LPO through the POAAL Insurance Plan, you get $20 million Products Liability cover at no extra cost!

In this day and age no small retail business operator can afford to be without Product Liability Insurance cover. If a product sold at your LPO causes harm and the manufacturer of the product cannot be traced, you could be held liable. Why risk losing your entire business over a product liability claim?

The POAAL Insurance Plan's Public and Products liability components are designed specifically for Licensees.

Join with your Licensee colleagues and take the insurance cover you need from the company which has your best interests at heart.

See the details as listed on the POAAL Membership/Insurance renewal/application for 2007/08, or ring the POAAL National Office for details on 03-96544533.
